THE GOAL FOR SELF DEFENSE

The goal is simple, stop the attack. There are many potential ways to stop an attack. Diplomacy is the least lethal way but talking your way out of a situation is not a likely alternative in today's woke culture.

The now generation leans more toward violence first and then just say I'm sorry that is free speech. I mean when a reporter can get on national television and say with a straight face that the protest are mostly peaceful with businesses burning in the background, diplomacy is not a first option.

Bad guys just want what they want and don't care who they have to run over to get it. Obviously, the best way to defend against these guys is to not be there or find a way to leave. If that is not an option, you must be willing to do the hard choice. Defend.

WHAT HAPPENS IF THEY DON'T STOP

Shoot them again. That's right. You have a right to defend yourself against an attack. You never thought about that did you. You thought when you took that enhanced carry class you would be covered. I hate to be the one to burst your bubble but getting that permit does not guarantee you will never have to use your weapon to defend yourself or a loved one.

Even if you pull the trigger there is no guarantee the attack will stop. You may have to shoot them more than once to stop the attack. I read an article in the USCCA magazine this month on Plan C. It was about two shots to the torso and one to the head. Most instructors, me included train to shoot center mass. That is the best option by far to stop an attacker because there is a lot of vital stuff in that area of the body. However, a well-placed shot to the head will drop an evil person in their tracks.

Most people can't make that shot. On a good day an 8 inch target in the center of the chest would be a good shot. Asking an individual to hit a 2-inch perfect shot to the head, while the adrenaline is pumping would be a tall order. Those shots are made by people who are dedicated to a rigid training regimen and have intuitive skills burned into their cerebral cortex. The shot is intuitive, just like touching your brake when a deer runs out in front of you when driving down the road. You don't have to look at the brake, you just step on it.

I told you last month about a shooting sport that helped me to keep my shooting skills somewhat up to date. USPSA and steel challenge shooting are very good shooting sports to help you hone your shooting skills. Natural right has applied for a club and plan to start steel challenge matches on June 19th. With ammo prices so high steel challenge is a good .22LR alternative that will help keep skills sharp. Call me if you think you may be interested in participating. At the very least come to a match and watch the other competitors to see if that would be a good alternative for you.

It may be that you just need some paper target practice first. There will be options for that as well. Sign up for one of the memberships listed below and we will get you started with the plan that works best for you.

GUN RANGE
AND FIREARMS TRAINING

RANGE TIME

The range is essentially complete now. Natural Right Firearms will be offering memberships to it's 6 handgun bays and 300-yard-long bay opening this month. We will be offering annual memberships for $210 for a single membership and $295 for a family. Members will have unlimited access when range is open. Reasons for range closure and other membership requirements will be disclosed during new member orientation. There will be an option for non-members to attend the range for $25 per two-hour session but will require an annual member reference. The annual member will be responsible for all referred persons for a one-year probationary period.

RESOURCES

The 6 handgun bays will have target holders for those wishing to practice their skills. The Rifle bay has target holders and shooting benches that can be used. There is one laydown bench also and covered sheds at all these locations. Targets will be available for purchase or you can provide your own if you wish. There will be restrictions on what can be shot on the range. All targets must be approved by NRF. We are looking forward to this new phase of Natural right firearms.
